

THE CHINOOK ADVANCE

22

Chinook, Alberta. Thursday, Sept. 14th 1944

JOE CITIZEN SAYS . .

These settlers from across the sea who came here so's they could be free to live their lives without the fear of death and danger lurking near; who've built their homes beneath these skies where no unfriendly ship e're flies, and send their children day by day to school to learn to work and play;— they must by this time understand the many blessings of this land, where folks from countries near and far, with neither race or creed a bar, can freely come and go and count on reaping as they sow.

I hope they fully realize that all these freedoms that they prize are really what have been at stake through the war; and so we take their utmost dollar and respond when asked to buy another bond.

Miss Dorothy Robison of Calgary is spending a month or more with her father and uncle on the farm.

Miss Agnes Gingles of Edmonton arrived here on Friday morning and will spend a short vacation with her mother and other relatives.

Mrs. W. J. Thompkins left on Saturday for Calgary where she will receive medical treatment.

Rev. Father Hamilton will celebrate Mass in Chinook Catholic Church on Saturday, Oct 7th at 10 o'clock a. m.

Plo Bill Youell we understand is in India.

Fine Weather Aids Harvest Work

Weather conditions have been ideal for harvesting in this district during the past week. Crop yields are disappointing and the heavy growth of weeds makes combining difficult, and a number of farmers are turning their stock on the crop. However, the heavy rains of August has improved pastures and added much needed moisture to the soil.

Mr. R. Morrison sold his home to the Alberta Pool Elevator Co. He also purchased the Mayfield house from W. S. Warren.

Victorious Canadians enter Berlin . . .

Every Canadian looks forward to that headline. Every Canadian believes that some day soon a great victorious convoy will thunder down the road to Berlin. Huge Canadian trucks . . . Canada's crack battle equipment, and gallant Canadian soldiers, world's finest fighting men, will all be there.

Will you be with them on the road? . . . or at least, on the way?

The smashing defeats we must inflict upon the enemy before that day, however, cannot be won except by fierce, determined fighting . . . and the First Canadian Army, you may be sure, will help to deal the hammer blows that punch the way along the Berlin road.

That's why Canada's Army needs men and needs them NOW! Join for General Service TODAY!

When Peace has come, you'll be proud to know (and know that the world knows) you had your place in the mighty force that fought its way to final VICTORY.

Empire Forces In The Pacific

SENATIONAL AND SWIFTLY moving events in Europe have tended to monopolize the public interest, and the war in the Pacific has, in the opinion of many, had less than the share of interest it has deserved. American forces have fought in great numbers in this theatre of war, and it is possible that many in this country have not realized the extent to which the British Empire has taken part in the struggle against Japan, while carrying on the war in Europe. The British Ministry of Information has, however, recently published some interesting facts concerning the part played by Empire forces on the various fronts in the Pacific war, stretching from the Aleutian Islands to the boundaries of Burma, and we are reminded that Canadian, Australian, New Zealand, Indian and West African troops have all fought at the side of British and American forces on the many sectors of this great war front.

Many Troops In Far East

Few Canadians need to be reminded of the part played by troops from this Dominion in the gallant defence of Hong Kong. Canadian soldiers likewise formed the greater part of the forces which drove the Japanese from the Aleutian Islands. The Royal Canadian Air Force also took part in this action. Australia, whose interest in the war in the Pacific is a vital one, has made contributions "out of all proportion to their resources." Mr. Herbert Morrison, British Minister of Home Security, reported that during the campaign in New Guinea, Australia supplied the greater part of the manpower and most of the equipment for her own soldiers. He further stated that in the whole Far Eastern theatre, taking British, Australian and Indian troops, the British contribution in manpower is comparable to that of the United States. At the beginning of this year, five-sixths of the land forces in the Southwestern Pacific were Australian, and they were responsible for many important successes, among them the capture of Buna, Milne Bay and Samarai.

Solid Basis For Victory

The Royal Australian Navy has also contributed much towards the Allied success in the Pacific. In addition to its work in transporting Australian troops and equipment to the battle areas, it has taken part in many assault actions, including the attacks on the Solomons and on Guadalcanal. The New Zealand Navy has likewise taken part in many actions in this area, and New Zealand ships have been responsible for the sinking of a number of Japanese submarines. The air forces of both Australia and New Zealand have won many brilliant victories over the enemy, and have also done extensive reconnaissance. In the campaign in Burma, crack Indian troops fought beside British Divisions and in this campaign there were also troops from West Africa who are known as the best jungle fighters in the world. It has been predicted that Empire forces in great strength will be sent to the Pacific when they are no longer required in Europe, and they will find there many of their comrades who have laid solid foundations for victory.

Where Premiers Lived

Canada's Prime Ministers Have All Owned Homes In Ottawa

Sir John A. Macdonald when he was prime minister bought the stately residence called Extonville overlooking the Ottawa river, with a vista of Parliament Hill. It is now the home of the British high commissioner. Sir Wilfrid Laurier lived in an old-fashioned brick residence on Sandy Hill. It was generally believed that it was left by Sir Wilfrid to the death of Lady Laurier as the home of the head of the Liberal party. This is not correct. It was left by Lady Laurier to Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King and is his personal property. He has lived in it ever since. Sir Robert Borden purchased a fine old residence when he was opposition leader, also on Sandy Hill overlooking the Rideau river. The high banks leading down to the river were conserved for wild flowers by Sir Robert, who was an amateur botanist. It is today the residence of the Chinese minister to Canada. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, during his term of premiership and party leadership, lived in a very humble home in downtown Ottawa. Lord Bennett had a suite of rooms in the Chateau Laurier. —London Free Press.

Leaving Canada

Director Of United Kingdom Information Office Returns To London

Mr. M. R. K. Burge, director of the United Kingdom Information Office in Ottawa, is leaving us, returning to the International Labor Office in London; whence he came. For Burge was a different sort of information officer man, singular in that he didn't imagine his job to be in some way connected with censorship. He wasn't afraid to talk, and he didn't go around pompously or taking himself seriously, as though locked within his breast, and all but killing him, were all the secrets of the High Command.

Burge, in short, was a human being, with a grand sense of humor, sense of proportion, and a pretty wit. With his pipe and his Yorkshire accent (or some sort of an accent) it wasn't always possible to know what he was saying, but that mattered little, one feeling sure that he was saying something wise or witty, anyway.

A cynic friend of ours once remarked (he was of Scots or Irish origin) that he was always waiting to meet the sort of Englishman who had built up the British Empire. He should have met Burge. For he should have found in him the sort of Briton who is a citizen of the world, taking all sorts of things and people and places in his stride, as much at home on Sparks street as on the Strand, wise and humorous and understanding and tolerant.

Good-bye, Mr. Burge, and good luck to you. Here in Ottawa, should you come back to us, there will always be a welcome for you—Ottawa Journal.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q—I have one room and the use of a kitchen to let in my house. What may I charge weekly? How much notice must I give the tenant?
A.—You must apply to the rentals administration for a fixation of rent. An appraiser will call and inspect your accommodation and advise you the maximum rental which may be charged. You must give your tenant six months' notice to vacate, and this notice must not terminate between September 30 and the following April 30.

Q—I wish to sell my car. May I sell it privately or must I give it to a dealer to sell for me?
A.—You may sell it privately. A signed statement of sale with all details including the name and address of the owner and purchaser, etc., must be filed with the Motor Vehicle Board office. The forms are available at all Board offices. The car must be sold at a price not higher than the ceiling set by the Motor Vehicle Controller. No person, other than a dealer, shall purchase more than one used passenger motor vehicle in a calendar year, which means that if a person has acquired used passenger motor vehicle in the present calendar year he can sell this automobile but cannot accept another passenger motor vehicle as part payment in the same year.

Q.—May one person buy ammunition on his gun registration card on behalf of another person who wishes to use it?
A.—No. Hunters' ammunition purchase permits are only issued to owners of guns against their gun registration certificate. Permits are not transferable.

Q.—Is there any way in which we could have a remanufacture started in our community?
A.—If you would write to the Secretary of the Consumer Branch, War-time Prices and Trade Board, care of the head office of the Board in your province, you will receive information about the remanufacture.

Synthetic Quinine

Seen To Aid To Eradication Of Malaria After War

Elimination of malaria in civilized countries of the world after the war with the aid of atabrine, a synthetic quinine substitute, is visualized in an official report by the U.S. National Research Council's Board for the Coordination of Malarial Studies. Large-scale production of quinine or totinine, a form of quinine, is not now considered important for the management of malaria in armed forces personnel, the board reports.

"The post-war world, with the knowledge now available about this drug (atabrine) and on methods of malaria prevention, should be able to eliminate malaria from every civilized nation. That would be, indeed, a blessing derived from the most destructive and costly war the world has ever known."

Must Keep Navy

Canada Cannot Afford To Regard It As Expensive Luxury

Hon. Angus Macdonald, Navy Minister, speaking recently at Port Arthur, expressed the urgent hope that never again would the Canadian Navy be allowed to fall into the state it had to endure in the 1920's and 1930's.

"The achievements of Canada's sailors in this war," he declared, "should be a constant inspiration to us and the foundations which they laid so gallantly ought not to be allowed to crumble and disappear."

It is the plea of the man who knows by intimate information the full degree to which the navy has shielded this country and aided its allies. And it is a plea that needs to be made. For now is the time to anticipate the clamor for economy at the expense of security that will follow immediately after the war is over.

Such clamors have always been heard in time of peace. Then the absence of enemies in actual aggression is presented as proof that there are no enemies, and a navy, not in actual combat, is presented as an expensive luxury. It happens that just such a clamor was being raised in the British Parliament one hundred years ago this month. The London Times, roused by the danger, gave its warning in words that have meaning in our own day.

"Economy is a good thing, and a popular thing; but economy has ever been found to be in the end an expensive virtue; and the popularity which is founded on no other merit than that of having saved money at the expense of national safety or national honor, is as fleeting as it is contemptible. The most expensive warfare in which a country can be engaged is that in which it is involved without adequate preparation."

A nation like our own, boasting that it extends from the sea even unto the sea, cannot with safety leave itself defenceless, nor with honor leave its defence to others.—Montreal Gazette.

Fur Trade Prosperity

Combination Of Good Prices And Substantial Catches

Federal officials today look beyond the non-day-saw to the cold stars of winter and saw fur trade prosperity. If all goes well, they expect 1944 to be a richer year than 1943 when the value of Canadian raw fur production, representing pelts sold from fur farms and those caught by trappers, was $27,694,164, a record and 11 per cent above the value in 1942. Some 40 per cent of the total represented the catch taken by Indians, Eskimos and white trappers in Canadian outlands.

For two years the hunters in most regions have enjoyed the unusual combination of good fur prices and substantial catches. Now they suspect they are getting close to the end of a fur cycle and fur-bearing animals soon may be scarce; but if the 1944 catch is good almost everyone will be able to put something away for a rainy day.

W. M. Ritchie, chief of the agriculture department fur inspection and grading service, said the fur industry "is in a healthy condition both from the viewpoint of those engaged in fur production on fur farms and in trapping and those in the fur manufacturing and retail trades."

He said he estimated fur farming now represents an investment of about $40,000,000. Prosperity came to the fur trade in recent years due to a general shortage of raw furs and to a higher ratio of employment.

Irony Of War

That Paris And Rome Emerge Unscathed While London Suffered Damage

England, of which London is the heart, has lost homes and hospitals, beauty and history, as well as lives. Through every wound peeps honor. It is one of the supreme ironies of the war that the French, who did not fight for their capital, recovered it with its historic beauties unscathed, while Rome, a city consistently stained with war-guilt from the Abyssinian and the Spanish war to the foul blow of 1940, emerges with scarce a scar.

The editor of the paper acted promptly. "Send down two reporters," he ordered, "one to touch the wire and the other to write up the story."

Look To The North

The Necessity For Development Is One Of Urgency

It is not news that this war has revolutionized geographical thinking. Mercator's Projection has become somewhat outmoded in studying the map of the world, and in its place alert-minded people are using charts that offer a more accurate view of this globe.

From east-west thinking, Canadians must turn more to north-south thinking. A broad hint to this effect was given by President Roosevelt in his Bremerston speech. He spoke of Alaska and the Aleutians as "automatic stepping stones" to the Far East, and of the necessity of developing the northwest as an administrative and defence area.

According to The Evening Citizen's Washington correspondent, R. T. Bowman, the president feels very strongly, but is too polite to say so, that Canada has not kept up-to-date in its development of her northern areas, especially in an administrative way. He implies that Canada should take parallel steps with the United States in this problem of the new northern routes and defensive frontier.

The subject broached by President Roosevelt is vital to Canada. The Citizen has time and again pointed to the lack of imagination towards the north in Ottawa departments. But it is not altogether the departments' fault that administration up there is extremely inadequate and, alongside the Russian example, chaotic. The matter should receive attention from parliament. That it has not done so yet—except in the form of solitary voices from isolated members—is a reflection upon all parties, and particularly the party in power.—Ottawa Citizen.

The Way It Works

Air-Conditioning In Washington Gives Doctors Good Summer Business

An engineer of the Navy Department building in Washington got a call the other day to come to a room on the second floor, raise the temperature in an overhauled, air-conditioned suite, reports Drew Pearson. Arriving at the room, the engineer was surprised to learn the man who had complained was Polar Explorer Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd. Washington doctors say their summer business has never been better since air-conditioning hit the capital. Lt. Earle Mayfield, son of Texas' ex-Senator, came to Washington's air-conditioned hotels from Houston, and was taken to the hospital on a pneumonia stretcher.

They Will Remember

Russians Have Every Intention Of Avenging Their Murdered People

A United Press witness to a scene in one of the liberated Russian cities, Lublin, wrote: "In all my travels through liberated territory, I have never seen a more abominable sight than this camp near Lublin, where more than half a million men, women and children were massacred." This camp was the terminus of a German "murder van," to which Ilya Ehrenburg, the Russian writer, refers to in the following: "We can be lenient to the unlightened, but not to the inventions of the murder vans. The Russian soldiers are not tired. Men who in several days covered hundreds of miles with dust-whitened hair, inflamed eyes and cracked lips are exhilarated by the knowledge that they are at the gates of Berlin. At last they fight on a German soil. The shades of the slain are with us. Our people wanted to live, to enjoy the sun and flowers. The tortured and the slaughtered say to us: 'Remember'. Yes, we will remember."

Thus the macabre evidence accumulates against the sadistic vice, bloodlust, race of Germans. We will it be if the Russians do remember. A Muscovite scourge throughout Germany is overdue.—St. Catharines Standard.

Duck Population

Less Hunting During The War Has Caused An Upraise In Numbers

The war has brought abnormally low hunting pressures, causing still further upsurge in duck populations. They now are so numerous that the wintering grounds are heavily utilized, and considerable agricultural crop damages have resulted. Many species leave the water and invade fields of cultivated crops. Grains like wheat, corn and rice are especially liable to damage, and serious losses frequently occur.—Calgary Herald.

THE STORY OF CHILDREN'S UNDERWEAR

OBVIOUSLY babies and children must have underwear. So—the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has given special attention to the production of these garments.

The problem has not been so much one of a lack of raw materials, but of getting the raw materials (wool, cotton, rayon), spun into yarns—and then knit into garments. Canada has never produced all the wool, cotton and rayon yarn she requires. We have always had to get a substantial part of our requirements from other countries, even in peacetime. But since the war, there has been an acute shortage of underwear yarns everywhere.

There has been a greatly increased demand in addition to production difficulties. The efforts of the Board to meet the problem are given below.

THE INCREASED DEMAND RESULTED FROM:

- More babies... It's apparently always the way in wartime.
- Reduced use of second-hand or "hand-me-down" garments.
- Extra buying... Perhaps too many people wanted to be "on the safe side."
- Increased consumer buying... More people with more money.
- Less home sewing... Mothers have been working outside the home.
- Huge demand for underwear by Armed Forces.

MORE UNDERWEAR: but still not enough!

The reason is that it just has not been possible to produce with the skilled workers and machines available to the United Nations enough yarn and garments to meet the increased demands all over the world.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE ABOUT IT

- First of all the Board found out the kind and quantity of garments Canadian children must have.
- This showed that the public is asking for more than is actually needed.
- So plans were made to see, by directing production all down the line, if we could meet the swollen demand as nearly as possible.
- Each manufacturer was told to produce an increased number of garments.
- A constant check is kept on mills to see that they are producing the required number.
- Manufacturers not previously making children's underwear were induced to go into its production. An additional 600,000 garments will be provided this year from these sources.
- Negotiations were conducted with production authorities in other countries for supplies of yarn to Canadian knitters for use in children's underwear.
- Primary cotton mills were required to divert spinning facilities from fabric manufacture to the spinning of underwear yarns.
- Arrangements were made through National Selective Service to direct more labour to the underwear mills.
- A special campaign was launched to enlist parttime workers.
- Distribution to retail stores was organized to ensure equitable supply to all areas.

The greatly increased supply of children's underwear resulting from these efforts is shown by the relative sizes of the figures below.
